

TALMADGE, LINDER BITTERLY CONDEMNED FOR ATTACK ON ROOSEVELT BY GRAND JURY OF FULTON COUNTY

Chamber Attack Not Trade View, F. D. R. Answers

Organizations Misrepresent Men They Claim To Speak For, President Says.

ALL C. OF C. TALKS SHARPLY SCORED

Not One Constructive Contribution to Recovery Made, He Says.

By FREDRICK A. STORM.
WASHINGTON, May 3.—(UP)—President Roosevelt, in vigorous language, said today that in too many cases so-called business organizations misrepresented the businessmen they claimed to speak for.

Presidential concern at action of the chamber was amply manifest when it was learned Mr. Roosevelt yesterday told members of the business advisory council that in his opinion the resolutions adopted did not represent the thought of the businessmen of the country.

Weighing his words carefully, Mr. Roosevelt told a roomful of newspaper correspondents at his press conference today that he did not believe that a single speech delivered at the convention of the organization that ended its sessions here yesterday contained any mention of the human side of the picture.

Mr. Roosevelt's comment was in reply to a question as to the nature of his conference yesterday with the Business Advisory Council of the Department of Commerce, which called on him to endorse NRA extension and the social security program.

The president replied that all agreed with the fundamental principles involved and that he informed his callers he was convinced there were too many cases of so-called business organizations which misrepresented the aims of a good many businessmen.

Turns Ironie.
Referring to the recent meeting here, the president remarked that there were glittering generalities and some passing reference about hating to see old people starve. Ironically he added that this was scarcely a constructive contribution.

While business organizations clamored to be permitted to do things themselves, Mr. Roosevelt said, practice has shown that unless there is a check-up by city, state or federal authorities, there always are a certain number of people who carelessly or maliciously fail to live up to the law.

Meeting With Reporters.
The president, as usual, was smiling, but his plain language indicated he felt strongly on the subject. Reporters were gathered in semi-circle around his desk in the oval

Loss of Stop Watch Upsets Poise of House

WASHINGTON, May 3.—(AP)—The house came near to being disrupted today—the speaker's stop watch disappeared.

That is the handy little instrument which enables the presiding officer to stop speeches when time is up.

Search high and low failed to turn up the watch, kept in a clerk's drawer in the speaker's offices. About the time it was thought a runner would have to be sent downtown to buy a new one, an old watch with a broken crystal was found and the house proceeded with debate.

Sore Foot of Counsel Not Appellate Grounds

State Senator Randall Evans, of Thomson, who attempted to defeat adoption of the prohibition repeal referendum proposal by staging a filibuster in the recent session of the general assembly yesterday lost a case before the court of appeals in which he defended a Warren county man for possession of beer.

The high court upheld the conviction of the senator's client, James Turner, and ordered him to pay a fine of $75 levied by the Warren superior court.

Senator Evans appealed the case on the ground that when the case was brought to trial he had a sore foot and had to give more attention to the foot than the trial. The high court held that injury to counsel did not affect the case when it was not serious enough to keep him out of court.

SENATE RECESSES
TO PREVENT VOTE
ON BONUS BILL

Sudden Shift of Sentiment Made It Appear That Cash Payment Plan Would Carry.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—(AP)—Driven to cover by a sudden shift of bonus votes in the senate, administration leaders late today hurriedly recessed the session until Monday to prevent adoption of the Vinson cash payment bill in place of the Harrison compromise.

Cash bonus funds apparently were convinced they had the votes to adopt the Vinson bill and were calling for a vote, when Senator Robinson, democratic leader, suddenly rose and moved to recess over the week-end. Administration leaders hoped to reform their lines over Sunday, but they were frankly pessimistic. The surge of strength for the Vinson bill was in the teeth of a threatened presidential veto.

Earlier in the day democratic leaders had been confident of beating the Vinson measure because of a split between the advocates of that plan and those favoring the Patman bill for paying the bonus in new currency. The latter, however, suddenly swung over to the American Legion plan when they were assured it would provide the money for cashing the certificates.

Many Vets in Gallery.
With many veterans in the gallery impatiently waiting for a vote, the decision was first delayed by a warm debate over war debts, which resulted in a reaffirmation of the senate's determination not to compromise the long standing obligations from abroad.

The vital test of strength on the bonus issue was postponed after Chairman Harrison, of the senate finance committee, had made a bid for support of his compromise proposal by agreeing to an amendment to cut

'Cruel and Unkind' Grand Jury Says Of Physical Slur

Patronage of "Numbers Game" Provides Financials of Underworld, Says Presentments.

EMPLOYERS ASKED TO HELP END "BUG"

Constitution Praised for Editorial Fight Against Lottery Racket.

Atlanta was pictured yesterday as a city sagging into control of its underworld, financed by the lottery racket which the Fulton grand jury held is being nurtured by Atlantans who patronize the number racket, as the jury condemned The Constitution for its efforts to stamp out the evil. All leaders of business and social activities were called upon to join in the campaign to rid the city of the racket.

Charging that the lottery is one of the worst evils of the underworld of Atlanta, the grand jury in the presentments set out:

"We commend The Atlanta Constitution and its editor, Mr. Clark Howell Sr., for the splendid editorials in the fight The Constitution is making to put down the number game lottery, which is one of the worst evils of the underworld in this city."

"This paper is throwing its full strength and influence against this underworld racket, which is breaking down the social as well as financial structure of our city."

Atlanta's who patronize the number lottery are contributing to the menace, fostering crime and enriching an underworld organization of the worst type, the grand jury set out in the presentments.

"The racket is controlled and operated by bootleggers, ex-bootleggers and criminals who reap a rich harvest amounting to thousands of dollars daily. The greatest danger to the community lies in the fact that most of our citizens do not realize the menace that lies behind the patronage they are giving this so-called game."

A timely warning was issued by the grand jury in a plea for Atlantans to discontinue playing the "bug"; "the continuance of this practice in Atlanta will surely result in making these organizations so powerful they will corrupt our city government and will place control of the city in the hands of the worst criminal class."

As a possible curb to the lottery, the jury voiced the following appeal: "We urge that every manager of an office building, every manager of a department store, every proprietor of a business and every mistress of a home prohibit their employees and servants from gambling away their earnings on these lotteries."

Fulton County Post No. 134 of the American Legion was commended for the stand it has taken against lotteries and raffles.

2 Texans Arrested
In Chain Letter Fad

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, May 3.—(AP)—Felix Garcia, drug store clerk, and Chad Aton, bookkeeper, were charged by postal inspectors today with conspiracy to violate federal lottery and mail fraud regulations in connection with the chain letter fad.

Five persons probably will be arrested on similar charges, it was said at the postal inspector's office.

Garcia and Aton were arraigned before United States Commissioner Paul Lockhart this afternoon, waived preliminary hearing, and were released under $500 bond each.

RED LAWYER, AID FREED IN DESERT

Masked Mob in New Mexico Abducts, Beats Northern Duo.

GALLUP, N. M., May 3.—(UP)—Two bloodstained, exhausted communist leaders, safe after a beating at the hands of masked kidnappers, returned tonight to Gallup, scene of their abduction last night.

They were David Levinson, attorney for the International Labor Defense, and Robert Minor, communist writer and cartoonist.

Guarded by an escort of four state officers, and themselves armed with revolvers, they entered Gallup in a motor car and were taken at once to St. Mary's hospital for treatment of their injuries.

Death Threatened.
The two had reached the government Indian hospital in the little settlement of Tachewah, N. M., 21 miles from here, at 1 p. m. today in the dilapidated truck of a Navajo Indian.

Behind them was nearly 15 hours of suffering and terror, during which their abductors beat them and flung them, with sacks tied over their heads, from a car on a desert roadway, to wander through a black night of bluster rain.

Both men were threatened with death should they return to Gallup. Levinson and Minor were sent to Gallup to undertake the defense of 10 men charged with mob murder. Gallup was the scene of rioting in which Sheriff M. R. Carmichael and two unemployed men were killed last April 4.

Diet To Head Off Reno Divorces Urged by College of Physicians

PHILADELPHIA, May 3.—(AP)—Some of the wives who go to Reno may be headed off by putting them on a diet of three small meals a day, with between-meal snacks of milk with a banana or orange juice.

This will cure them of certain kinds of domestic tantrums, which are not, as they believe, due to soul troubles, but to hyperinsulinism, a newly defined disease described to the American College of Physicians here today.

A promising remedy for diabetes, an extract of the duodenum, which may be much cheaper than insulin, was also reported to the college.

Hyperinsulinism was reported by Dr. Harris, N. B., professor emeritus of medicine of the University of Alabama as "a new disease entity."

It is the opposite of diabetes, a sort of black sheep twin, the ability of the body to use too much instead of too little as in diabetes. Dr. Harris said it has been mistaken for many sorts of diseases, including insanity.

Sufferers from the mild type of hyperinsulinism, he said, have called it "hunger disease" because the victim frequently becomes excessively hungry, weak and nervous.

Among the cases he cited was the wife of a man who came to him

NO WAR MENACE SEEN BY KELLOGG

Nations Will Settle Differences Peaceably, Says Author of Pact.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—(P)—Frank B. Kellogg, former secretary of state, father of the Kellogg peace pact and world court judge, expressed the opinion today that there is no danger of war in Europe and that the nations will settle their differences by peaceful means.

The Nobel peace prize winner gave his views after a brief visit with Secretary Hull.

"I do not believe the situation in Europe is nearly so alarming as it is made out to be," he declared. "I do not think there is the slightest danger of war between Germany and any other country. There is nothing to go to war about. None of them has forgotten the terrible price paid in the last war. They know the world-wide depression was due to the World War and they are not going to have another."

Asked why he thought there were so many persistent reports of war clouds over Europe, Kellogg declared that it was "mostly diplomatic maneuvering."

"There is also such a thing," he added, "as statesmen talking for home consumption, and jingling making war talk in their desire to increase their own armaments."

"Germany knows no one is going to make war on her, and she knows she isn't going to make war on anyone else. That makes the danger of war less than it has been for a long time."

"The growth of arbitration as a peaceful means to settle differences between nations is encouraging and, if I may say so, the Kellogg peace pact, under which nations denounce war as an inhuman and irrational policy, has been, and still is, a powerful restraining and educational influence."

The elderly, white-haired statesman said he saw no reason at the moment for the United States to attempt to redefine international laws of neutrality, but declined to enter into any discussion of that subject.

JACK OAKIE GETS $100 FROM DOLLAR IN CHAIN LETTER

LOS ANGELES, May 3.—(P)—Two prominent movie colony members of the "Prosperity Club," Jack Oakie and George Brent, reported substantial returns from the send-a-dime fund today as a federal authority expressed his belief the scheme would "die of its own weight."

Early death of the get-rich-quick idea was predicted by W. F. Palmer, assistant United States attorney. He denied reports for a search for "master mind" racketeers in the chain letter craze.

Oakie said he had received $100 in return for $1 he mailed out in a letter.

Brent reported he had received $6 from a dime chain letter series, but that he did not contribute any money. The actor said his name was included in a letter by some fan.

Clark E. Webster, postoffice inspector in charge here, and Palmer both stated the dime letter mania had been officially interpreted by the government as a violation of the postal laws. Webster stated it was his duty of his office to investigate when a complaint is made, but explained he was not permitted to say what inquiries this had established.

Betty and Benny in Training For Their Daring Sky-Dance

Many eyes will be turned upward next Thursday afternoon to see Betty and Benny perform their "sky dance" hundreds of feet above the street, on a platform only 24 inches in diameter. Betty and Benny are shown here going through their training routine on a 12-inch practice platform which is only half the size of the platform they use in their daring dance.

A glimpse at Betty and Benny early some morning would help to give a visual answer to the hundreds of questions about how they are able to endure six hours of sky-dancing as they will demonstrate in their thrilling exhibition next Thursday afternoon on their 24-inch dancing floor hundreds of feet above the street.

Betty and Benny have thrilled thousands on the Pacific coast with their stunt and have withstood the grind hour after hour with the continual added strain of balancing against the pull of gravity and the push of wind because they train as rigorously as prize fighters.

This intrepid pair will show next Thursday how essential such building-up of endurance is when they mount their tiny platform, perched atop a 75-foot steel mast on the roof of a downtown office building. Be sure to see them next Thursday as they perform under the canopy of the sky with only a thin board or two between them and the earth below.

Sloan Challenges U. S. Data In Warning of Cotton Imports

WASHINGTON, May 3.—(P)—Cotton manufacturers, becoming increasingly fretful, continued their pleas for help before a special cabinet committee today, while new protests against the processing tax and Japanese imports were heard in the senate.

George A. Sloan, chairman of the Cotton Textile Code Authority, termed misleading statements that imports, even at the present rate, still would be less than 1 per cent of domestic production. He asserted imports this year would approximate 37 per cent of American production of bleached cloth and 25 per cent of the domestic print cloth output.

Sloan, pointing out that the cotton textile industry was the first to cooperate with the administration in preparing its code—NRA Code No. 1—said 71 mills employing 22,000 workers had closed since last August, insisted that the processing tax should be removed and some other source provided for benefits paid to farmers and recommended that the tariff provisions of the NRA be strengthened to protect the industry.

Inclining toward the idea of quotas on Japanese imports to safeguard the domestic market, Sloan said he believed the government of the Philippine Islands and of Cuba would readily co-operate in reciprocal trade agreements that would enable the American manufacturers to re-enter those markets, now flooded with Japanese cloth.

Meanwhile, in the senate, a petition, bearing thousands of signatures and asking removal of the cotton processing tax, was presented by Senator Metcalf, republican, Rhode Island, while Senator Gibson, republican, Vermont, warned that the Japanese had wrested the rich Philippine textile market from American manufacturers—a statement corroborated before the cabinet group by Sloan and other members of the code authority and the Cotton Textile Institute.

"Give us back our Philippine market and we can put 15,000 back to work," Sloan said.

Manufacturers privately expressed irritation at what they considered an attempt by Secretary Wallace to over-emphasize the questions of obsolescence and capital structure—issues they contended were unimportant. They expressed doubt also, that the procedure to be followed by the committee would make possible desired assistance as speedily as they believe necessary.

Today's conference was the fourth conducted by the cabinet committee. Sloan and H. Dorr, president of the Cotton Textile Institute, with members of the industry from the south, followed delegations from Maine, Rhode Island and the southern states.

Quick Action Urged.
Dorr also urged immediate action to aid American manufacturers to recapture the Philippine and South American market.

In a joint brief filed with the committee, Sloan and Dorr conceded that the processing tax could not be held alone responsible for the high price of cotton textiles and the decrease in consumption of cotton, but added that it is significant, however, that the disparity in textile prices is just about the amount of the processing tax.

They contended it would be desirable to eliminate all taxes on cotton textiles.

Williamson Defends Tax.
N. C. Williamson, president of the American Cotton Cooperative Association, told the committee that the farmers "never again will submit to the policy whereby they buy on a protected market and sell in the world market." He recommended that cotton be given adequate tariff protection against competing fibers.

116 MILLION SEEN FOR BRITISH SHIPS

Amount Necessary If England Maintains Air Equality With Germany

(Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press.)
LONDON, May 3.—A high British source, close to the air ministry, said tonight Britain must spend 24,000,000 pounds ($116,000,000) for 600 fighting planes if she is to fulfill the government's pledge to maintain air equality with Germany.

That authoritative estimate was put forward shortly after receipt of authentic information from Berlin that Germany now has facilities for building 100 planes monthly for replacement, and may soon speed the pace to 200 planes each month.

The government prepared the draft of an "air Locarno"—an alliance providing for immediate reprisals against aggression from the skies—to be submitted to France, Italy, Belgium and Germany.

Other developments were:

1. The air ministry launched its new program for substantial increases in British fighting planes, airplanes and Royal Air Force personnel, expecting to present it to parliament within two weeks.

2. Government departments were instructed to keep close watch on all phases of German rearmament, in view of official admissions that Britain still does not know whether it had full information concerning Adolf Hitler's objectives.

3. Informal quarters said they did not think the Franco-Russian mutual assistance pact, signed yesterday and made public today, would impede Germany's entrance into non-aggression agreements.

4. Naval circles voiced the opinion the British navy ought to be built up along with the air force, if Britain is to enjoy security.

5. Lord Rothermere's Daily Mail urged intensive strengthening of all defense equipment and asked David Lloyd George's inclusion in the cabinet to supervise rearmament, while the Daily Express asserted hope for world peace lay in British-American understanding.

Expansion in Air.
An outlay of 24,000,000 pounds, necessary if Britain is to match Germany's plans for planes as MacDonald and Lord President of the Council Stanley Baldwin both have promised, would provide for corresponding expansion in Royal Air Force personnel and bases, it was said on high authority.

The French air fleet, this source asserted, probably would be the yardstick by which Germany's fleet could be measured, thus on the assumption that Hitler's secret program is designed to keep abreast of France.

At the same time Britain will make an effort to halt the headlong air armaments race. The proposed "air Locarno," it was revealed, would include an agreement to halt airplane construction.

The air ministry, however, was understood to be taking the government's promise to attain air equality at the earliest possible moment at its face value, making recommendations on this basis.

CHEVROLET PLANT PICKETING BEGUN

Going on strike at 12:01 o'clock yesterday afternoon, employees of the Chevrolet and Fisher Body plants here, who are members of Local No. 18488, United Automobile Workers of America, began peaceful picketing of the two factories a short time later.

The two plants were officially shut down Wednesday as a result of shortage of transmissions occasioned by the strike in the Toledo plant, the company. Consequently, the strike went into effect at a time when the nearly 2,000 Atlanta employees of the plants were actually idle.

The picketers were completely surrounded by the two factories, about 200 workers being in the picket line, according to C. H. Gillman, president of the local. The picketers will "work" in two shifts of 200 men each.

"D. S. Zimmerman, superintendent of the Chevrolet plant, called me Friday morning and informed me that carrying out the policy of his company there would be no negotiations carried on at present with the union," President Gillman said last night.

"Consequently the strike was declared in force at 12:01 o'clock, as planned, and a picket line immediately thrown around the plants here."

"This is entirely a peaceful picketing and I do not believe there will be any disorder. In my opinion this strike will be settled at the headquarters of the General Motors corporation and not in Atlanta. However, we intend to remain until a settlement has been reached satisfactory to the 19,000 General Motors employees now on strike."

After the strike call was issued about 120 union members, marching behind a large flag, paraded past the plants to a store of music from a loud speaker. County police ordered the loud speaker toned down.

Gillman said approximately 75 workers were at their jobs in the parts department of the plants yesterday but they were expected to join the strike today. Union spokesmen declared no instructions had been issued concerning 150 office workers still on duty but an effort would be made to persuade them against returning to work.

Groups of pickets to the plants and orders were issued to prohibit trucks from entering or leaving the plants with materials.

Bandits Get $22,127
In Arkansas Holdup

FORT SMITH, Ark., May 3.—(P)—Three brazen, masked bandits who looted the City National bank of $22,127 and kidnapped an elderly man today in Fort Smith's first bank robbery, fled tonight into the Ozark hills of northwest Arkansas with federal, county and city officers at their heels.

The kidnaped man, J. D. Morgan, 64, of Fort Smith, was released several hours later at Fayetteville, 70 miles to the north, as the bandit trio sped into a section which has sheltered fugitives since the Civil War.

New Lane Drug Store Opens At Lee-Gordon Corner Today

The Newest Lane Drug Store at Lee and Gordon Streets.

Lane Drug Stores open their newest unit in Atlanta with the formal opening of a beautiful store located at Lee and Gordon streets. This unit has been completely remodeled and thoroughly equipped to put it on a par with the other modern, high-class Lane drug stores.

President Naylor, of Lane Drug Stores, states, "We believe this store is located at a most advantageous point and is designed to fill the requirements of a wide area of customers in the West End section."

"This new store will be formally dedicated to the West End public Saturday with a special celebration sale."

This announcement is made close on the heels of a notice earlier in the week regarding the $100,000 lease transaction involving the Lane Drug Store in the Henry Grady Hotel building.

"This move," says Mr. Naylor, "is in line with our continued plan for expansion. We have experienced definite signs of new business life in Atlanta and the surrounding area and we feel entirely enthusiastic in assuming the obligations of serving new customers."

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 3.—(P)—W. A. Smith arrived today from Washington, D. C., to take charge of the federal bureau of investigation offices here. He succeeds W. A. Rorer, who has been named chief of the new Department of Justice offices in Atlanta after serving as director here for 11 months.

Florida Exemption Ruled Void by Ritter

MIAMI, Fla., May 3.—(P)—The Florida homestead exemption constitutional amendment was today declared "null and void" by Federal Judge Halsted L. Ritter in so far as it affects the levying of municipal taxes for debt service.

The amendment, which exempts from taxation homesteads valued up to $5,000, "may apply," Judge Ritter ruled, "to a release of the homesteads from general state revenue taxation."

Judge Ritter ruled against the city of Fort Pierce on its motion to quash an alternative writ of mandamus obtained in federal court in 1933 by

WAR TAX MEASURE IS GIVEN APPROVAL

'Flynn Plan' for Heavy Levies, Conscription of Industry Favored.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—(P)—Showing aside the house-approved McSwain-Baruch anti-war-profits measure, the senate judiciary committee today favorably reported its "Flynn plan" bill levying drastic taxes on individuals and industry in wartime and giving the government authority to conscript captains of industry.

The committee also asked for $45,000 additional to continue its investigation which already has cost around $100,000.

Chairman Nye, republican, North Dakota, said enough of the last $50,000 grant remained to complete the study of the part banks played in American entrance into the World War, but more funds would be needed to study proposed nationalization of the munitions industry.

In general, the committee's bill was the same as that originally submitted by John T. Flynn, its economist advisor. But under the guidance of treasury officials, the new rates of wartime taxation were superimposed upon the present income tax law.

The bill would increase the normal tax on individuals from 4 to 6 per cent, and cut personal exemptions for a single person from $1,000 in the present law to $500 in the war-time measure, and the exemption of married couples from $2,500 to $1,000. The exemption for dependents in turn would be cut from $400 to $100.

Surplus rates would begin at $3,000 instead of $4,000 as in the present law, applying a levy that would graduate upward at the rate of about 10 per cent for each additional thousand.

A virtual top of $10,000 of net earnings for any individual would be by the bill, although it said "the usual allowances for the payment of interest and taxes are continued, together with most of the existing reasonable and just allowances for dependents, wife, losses, charities."

The tax on corporations would be 15 per cent on the first 2 per cent of

Rettich, Five Others Named in Mail Holdup

BOSTON, May 3.—(P)—Carl Rettich, who presided over an elaborate criminal stronghold at Warwick, R. I., which was raided a week ago, and five other men were named today by Postal Inspector John J. Breslin as the bandits who last January robbed a postal truck in Fall River of $129,000. All are under arrest, except one who was "bumped off" last Friday.

Breslin, chief inspector for the New England district, made this assertion as he and other federal investigators went before a special session of the grand jury here to demand indictments.

The others named by Breslin were Joseph Fisher, described as Rhode Island's "public enemy No. 1," held in the Providence, R. I., county jail; Thomas Dugan, alias Lee, Moran and Evans Thomas, held in New York charged with two slayings and robbery; Charles Harrigan, alias McCarthy and Jack Gallo, under arrest at Mr. Sinai's hospital, New York, suffering from bullet wounds, also charged with two slayings and robbery and held without bail; John Sonny McGilone, held without bail in New York, and Andino Merola Jr., Providence gangster, whose bullet-riddled body was found in Wrentham a week ago tonight.

net income after deductions; 25 per cent on all income above 2 per cent and up to 6 per cent, and 90 per cent on all income above that, as an excess profits tax.

The committee did not write in any labor conscription provisions, explaining that the general mobilization feature was being studied by the committee in its examination of the war department war plans.

TAXES!!

CITIZENSHIP... Our Responsibility... Our Opportunity

This is an appeal to every good citizen to act NOW!!

Georgia's antiquated 58-year-old law, written in 1877, taxing intangibles (cash, stocks, bonds and mortgages) at their full market value, is forcing intangibles into hiding to escape confiscatory taxation and is driving capital to neighboring states.

Citizens and businesses are moving to Alabama, Tennessee, Florida, the Carolinas and other states where intangibles are taxed at a reasonable rate. Accordingly, our home owners are bearing an unjust real estate tax burden to make up for this loss of revenue.

Thousands of individuals suffer as Atlanta's prestige as a commercial center dwindles.

Realizing this, tax authorities of Atlanta, Fulton County and DeKalb County have agreed to accept voluntary returns of intangibles, but only through May 15, on the following basis of assessment:

Taxable stocks and bonds at 15% of the market value;

Mortgages at 25%;

Cash at 5 cents on the dollar.

Tax authorities have announced that if you do not voluntarily make your return by May 15 special investigators will endeavor to locate your intangibles, and you will be taxed for this and prior years on the full value with all penalties provided by law.

The undersigned believe that this is a fair basis upon which to make returns of these classes of property, and we recommend that everyone cooperate with the taxing authorities in carrying out this plan.

If you have already filed your return on other property, you may revise it to include intangibles at the above rates.

FULTON COUNTY GRAND JURY PRESENTMENTS

PRESENTMENTS.
IN THE SUPERIOR COURT, FULTON COUNTY, GEORGIA, MARCH-APRIL TERM, 1935.
HON. G. H. HOWARD, PRESIDING.
FULTON CRIMINAL DIVISION.
Your grand jury for the March-April term of this court respectfully submit its general presentments as follows:

Alma House.
We visited the alma "home" house for white and colored, with Mrs. Clark as superintendent.
We found this institution in excellent condition as to management. Mrs. Clark is a good, efficient manager and deserves praise for the way she conducts these homes for the unfortunate of our county. All inmates were clothed and fed properly.
We saw the food being cooked and served and it was good and wholesome and plenty of it, but not wasteful.

All inmates love and adore Mrs. Clark and we think our county is very fortunate in having so competent a person as Mrs. Clark in charge of this institution. She has a good man in charge of the colored ward, Mr. Arndell.

We found 152 white inmates—73 males and 79 females, 66 colored inmates—32 males and 34 females.

We recommend the following work be done as soon as practicable: Repair plaster in main office building, a space about 6x12 feet has fallen off. (This was recommended fixed by grand jury last March-April). The colored home to be resurfaced, railing for chairs to be put up to prevent scarring walls in halls. The floor in the colored kitchen to be repaired at once.

We recommend that about 100 chairs be purchased for the chapel. (At present only 20 chairs have been purchased). We recommend that about 100 chairs be purchased for the chapel. (At present only 20 chairs have been purchased). We recommend that about 100 chairs be purchased for the chapel. (At present only 20 chairs have been purchased).

As a whole, we found homes clean, sanitary and also the grounds well kept.

Georgia Training School for Girls.
In one of our investigations, we visited the Georgia Training School for Girls. In the absence of Mrs. Skyles, the head matron, Mrs. McCall conducted the tour of the institution.

We found everything in perfect order. The school was clean in all departments. Mrs. Skyles deserves a great deal of credit for the way she is doing among these girls.

We understand this school is financed entirely by the state of Georgia. Some of the products of the school are produced by the state of Georgia. Some of the products of the school are produced by the state of Georgia.

The enrollment of the Georgia Training School for Girls is made up of girls sent from various juvenile courts throughout the state of Georgia. There are approximately 150 girls enrolled in the school at the present time.

Grady Hospital.

We made thorough inspection of Grady hospital and were much impressed with the way it is managed. The entire institution, the hospital in every department seems to be well equipped, and each unit was found to be scrupulously clean.

Through help received from the United States government the hospital has been enlarged and greatly improved. The building is well equipped with modern medical equipment. Various departments and units have been completely rehabilitated and brought up to date.

Economic efficiency has been the watchword, and greater results have been secured by the management at less cost.

For year 1934 the total operating cost was $1,022,827.57, as compared with $533,914.00 for year 1929. And yet...

During 1934 a total of 99,983 patients were treated as compared with 45,885 patients treated during 1929. For the present year the county is paying $75,403 toward the expenses and the city will pay the balance.

Because of the efficient treatment afforded at Grady, plus 24-hour service, the number of emergency patients has increased amazingly. To illustrate:

For year 1929 only 15,851 emergency patients were treated as compared with 34,379 for year 1934.

Recommendations.
We recommend that a reasonable charge be made for hospitalization and physicians' attention in all emergency cases where the patient is found to be able to pay same.

We further recommend that similar charges be made for patients who are able to pay and who are sent to the contagious ward.

We further recommend that exhibit be made to the proper United States government officials, in which the recent government appropriation has been spent and urging further government assistance for yet more improvements.

The showing that can be made should help greatly in getting further governmental help.

We wish to commend most heartily Dr. J. B. Franklin, superintendent, the staff of physicians and the board of trustees for their tireless zeal in behalf of this splendid institution.

For the excellent results that are being obtained—they are truly doing a great work in the interest of suffering humanity.

Female Detention Home.
The present building used for the detention of juveniles is a disgrace to our county. The building is old and in a very deplorable state and inadequate for the proper care of the inmates.

Miss Marie Poe is in charge of the home. She is a very efficient and capable woman, and is doing splendid work. She is thoroughly interested and is to be commended for the results she is securing.

We commend Mr. Holland, jailer, and Mr. Turner, engineer, and steward, for the competent manner in which the jail is being run. They have the details well in hand and have in mind many splendid improvements which will be put into effect just as soon as the present work on the jail has been completed.

We recommend that each floor be equipped with a hose pipe as a precaution against fire.

We recommend that every package of any kind whatever sent in for prisoners be unwrapped and examined in the presence of the warden.

The department for white and colored women prisoners was carefully inspected by us.

Mrs. H. C. McCutcheon, in charge of this department, is doing splendid work. She is thoroughly interested and is to be commended for the results she is securing.

We commend Mr. Holland, jailer, and Mr. Turner, engineer, and steward, for the competent manner in which the jail is being run. They have the details well in hand and have in mind many splendid improvements which will be put into effect just as soon as the present work on the jail has been completed.

severe treatment there. You must be prepared to take a pauper's oath if you are admitted and no taxpayer is a pauper.

Albert Steiner left approximately $750,000 for the establishment of a cancer clinic for the poor. He said nothing about the necessity of being a pauper.

The dread disease of cancer, according to statistics, affects one man out of every seven, and one woman out of every five who have attained the age of 20 years.

Here is an institution that is thoroughly equipped to care the best known scientific treatment for this disease. The American Society for Control of Cancer gives it a rating of "A" and places it among the best of this country, and yet...

Unless you are a pauper you can't avail yourself of its unsurpassed advantages.

There are thousands of poor people in Atlanta who are not paupers and where they suffer with cancer they should be afforded all the benefits of this institution.

Shall we be greatly interested in their welfare? This would unquestionably carry out the intentions of the donor.

Recommendations:
We recommend in the interest of suffering humanity that a way be found for Steiner clinic to care for cancer patients who are not paupers.

Such a plan should be worked out in no way with the full and complete care of the destitute who are receiving treatment.

We further recommend that application be made to the United States government for an appropriation commensurate with the needs of this splendid institution to the end that the floor in the colored kitchen to be repaired at once.

On the showing that can be made we believe such funds can be obtained.

The thanks of the community are due Dr. R. H. Fike and the corps of splendid physicians comprising both the resident and the visiting staff. Also to the board of trustees who are directly in charge of this institution.

Juvenile Court.
The work of this court is one of the greatest in our city. It is here that the young offender first comes in contact with officials charged with enforcing laws for the protection of society.

Some of the products of the school are produced by the state of Georgia. Some of the products of the school are produced by the state of Georgia.

We believe that this fact deserves the careful consideration of county and state authorities. Such a provision is made for these cases there should be at least one and preferably two colored probation workers assigned to this work.

County Jail.
The county jail was thoroughly inspected by us. At present, through a United States government appropriation, the jail is being enlarged and overhauled at a cost of approximately $200,000.

In consequence the whole building is in a state of chaos. The work is dragging on the floors, passageways and cells are cluttered with dust and litter. This is unavoidable at present.

Recommendations:
We recommend that this work without further delay be finished.

In this way the building can be made livable for the 300 or 400 prisoners who are housed there.

We recommend that as soon as possible all of the old cells for white and colored prisoners be painted inside and outside. This will help to give the jail a better appearance.

We recommend that each prisoner before he is admitted to the jail should be given a complete physical examination to see if he has any communicable disease. This does not obtain at present.

We recommend that the practice of building the most hardened criminals with youths who are in jail for minor offenses be discontinued at the earliest possible moment.

When the present changes in the jail have been completed.

Under the new arrangement each of the five floors is largely isolated. There are no corridors to give warning of unusual disorder and at present there are only three guards for the five floors.

We recommend that detectors for each cell block and a guard for each floor.

The present improvements do not do justice to the old part of the jail. Why spend $200,000 improving the jail and leave off the main thing that makes a jail—a steel bars?

It is suggested that too-proof steel bars be installed throughout the jail. This should be done now while the improvements are being made.

We recommend, as a precaution, that a check of all jail inmates be made daily.

We recommend that each floor be equipped with a hose pipe as a precaution against fire.

We recommend that every package of any kind whatever sent in for prisoners be unwrapped and examined in the presence of the warden.

The department for white and colored women prisoners was carefully inspected by us.

Mrs. H. C. McCutcheon, in charge of this department, is doing splendid work. She is thoroughly interested and is to be commended for the results she is securing.

We commend Mr. Holland, jailer, and Mr. Turner, engineer, and steward, for the competent manner in which the jail is being run. They have the details well in hand and have in mind many splendid improvements which will be put into effect just as soon as the present work on the jail has been completed.

drawal of 12 men from patrol ranks for station house duty during 1934.

Recommendations:
We recommend that the investigation to escape from the jail now under way be thorough and complete.

We urge that the responsibility for all leaks from the department be definitely placed, and the parties to blame be promptly dealt with.

We further recommend that all money yet due for jail construction be withheld until the department has brought about a serious problem of financing necessary additions or enlargements of present facilities.

been liquidated since the first of the year.

The building of good roads and the increase in the private automobile has created a trend from the cities to the rural districts. This has caused a rapid growth in county school enrollment during the last few years.

While this enrollment was increasing the revenue available for county schools has decreased on account of reductions in state aid.

These conditions have brought about a serious problem of financing necessary additions or enlargements of present facilities.

the roads in the county we found most of them in very good condition.

We commend the work being done in and around Fairburn on the unpaved streets and roads, also the grading and beautifying of Cascade road.

The construction work now in progress on the Broomfield highway is a splendid activity. Work on this particular highway cannot be speeded up too soon, since this is a most dangerous thoroughfare.

We appreciate the work being done by FERA in straightening and grading the Broomfield highway.

Recommendations:
1. We recommend that Cascade road be graded and paved to the river.

2. That the commissioners rush to completion the Battle Hill sanatorium and improvement of other necessary county institutions.

3. That Moore's Mill road bridge be widened to conform with the A. B. C. railway on Fairburn road to be reconstructed and road changed to eliminate a very dangerous curve.

4. That the Cheshire road bridge over S. A. L. railway be rebuilt and highway straightened and paved, eliminating curves on both ends of the bridge.

county affairs be operated strictly within its income.

The cost of carrying the present deficit of over $225,000 is high and this deficit should be wiped out before expenditures for additional parks, golf courses, etc., are made.

That the commissioners consider the advisability of consolidating the offices of tax collector and tax collector.

That the need of economy in county management and operation be recognized and practiced by all members of the board of county commissioners.

We recommend that the proposal to purchase some 150 acres of land near Cascade road for park purposes be abandoned.

We condemn the expenditure of $21,000 for parks at this time when there is such a great need for the extension of Battle Hill sanatorium and improvement of other necessary county institutions.

Salaries of Municipal Judges.
The March-April term of the Fulton county grand jury condemns the increase in the salaries of the judges of the municipal court made on yesterday by the board of county commissioners. The associates of this court were already drawing excessive salaries for the rank of the court, namely $30,000 annually, which was raised to $35,000 annually. The chief judge of this court salary was raised from $7,500 to $8,400.

The salaries of the judges of the highest court in Georgia—those of the Georgia Supreme Court—were only $7,000 annually. There is no doubt that these increases were entirely out of line with reason or economy in county government.

GENERAL.
Number Game.
The grand jury has had before it a number of cases involving the playing of the so-called "number game." From the evidence disclosed we cannot help realizing the grave danger that lies in the near future for the community unless this racket is destroyed.

This racket is controlled and operated by bootleggers, ex-bootleggers and criminals who reap a rich harvest from the thousands of dollars daily.

The greatest danger to the community lies in the fact that most of our citizens do not realize the menace that is behind the patronage they are giving to this so-called game.

Instead of risking a few cents to win a few dollars, the widespread prevalence of this racket throughout the city is enriching a small group of organized crime.

The continuation of this practice in Atlanta will surely result in making this city a hotbed of organized crime.

They will corrupt our city government and will place control of the city in the hands of the most criminal class.

We urge that every manager of an office store, every executive of a department store, every executive of a business and every mistress of a home in Atlanta who employ servants and servants from gambling away their earnings on these lotteries.

We wish to commend the Fulton County Post No. 134, American Legion, which has been very active in the publication of the local press of Atlanta.

No. 1, the American Legion, and the Atlanta Georgian for their untiring effort and splendid work in their fight on communism.

We are in full accord with the principle that executive clemency should be exercised to right a wrong and believe that the pardon power should be used in cases where an injustice has been done.

The pardoning of numerous criminals, burglars, racketeers and other criminals who have been convicted in this lottery racket, and where there is no evidence of any use of force, we believe is a violation of the trust imposed in this high office.

The turning loose of these criminals to prey upon the public we condemn, whether the pardon was granted through a misguided sense of mercy or for any other cause.

Slums.
The federal government in collaboration with local authorities have prepared charts and maps and gathered data and statistics which very clearly bring out the fact that infested areas of tuberculosis and crime are far more prevalent in our slum districts than elsewhere in the city.

The Federal and Atlanta University slum clearance projects of the federal government will be outstanding examples of what can be accomplished.

TAX INTANGIBLES OBJECT OF DRIVE

Leaders Join Movement To Bring Properties on Tax Books.

Heads of many of the most influential business and civic organizations of the Atlanta area, representing a large majority of taxpayers, Friday joined in a movement to get all intangible property owned in Atlanta, Fulton county and DeKalb county on the tax books by May 15.

The concerted movement followed announcement by tax authorities that voluntary returns of taxable stocks and bonds, cash and mortgages would be accepted at a fair basis of assessment through May 15, but that all penalties allowed by law would be imposed after that date.

Launching of the movement was in recognition of a crisis in government affairs and the need for distressed homeowners to be relieved of an unfair tax burden necessitated by lack of tax revenue on intangibles.

It was pointed out that Georgia's antiquated laws, which place taxing intangibles at their full value of 100 cents on the dollar, is driving businesses and individuals to neighboring states where intangibles are taxed at a fair rate.

In recognition of the situation, tax authorities agreed to accept, through May 15, voluntary returns on taxable stocks and bonds at 15 per cent of their market value; mortgages at 25 per cent and cash at five cents on the dollar.

Thomas K. Glenn, president of the Trust Company of Georgia, was chosen as general chairman of the movement, and a central committee announced as follows:

Thomas K. Glenn, vice president, Atlanta Clearing House Association, chairman; John K. Ottley, president, First National bank; H. Lane Young, executive vice president, Citizens & Southern National bank; Ryburn G. Clay, president, Fulton National bank; J. C. Shelor, assistant trust officer, Trust Company of Georgia; G. M. Stout, president, Atlanta Real Estate Board; T. C. Dickson, president Atlanta Retail Merchants' Association; R. W. Courts Jr., representing the Atlanta stock and bond brokers; Wayne Martin, representing the Atlanta Security Dealers' Association; J. G. Norris, of Norris & Hirschberg, Inc.; J. W. Tindall, of Brooke-Tindall Company; Henry B. Tompkins, of Robinson-Humphrey Company; J. E. Settle, of J. H. Hilsman & Company; Clement A. Evans, of Clement A. Evans & Company; Henry Wyatt, of Wyatt, Neal & Waggoner; Hagood Clarke, of Johnson, Lane, Space & Company; F. D. Willis, of Fenner & Beane; R. H. Bewick, of Beer & Company; S. C. Dobbs Jr., of Dobbs & Company; Thomas S. Denton, of E. A. Pierce & Company; Luther Alverson, of Arcade Co-operative Association; W. M. Boomershire, of Boomershire Motors, Inc.; W. J. Gower, of Gower's Pharmacy; E. J. Tomlinson, of Megahue & Tomlinson; Henry L. Reid, of Henry L. Reid Company; Irwin Wootton, of Charles A. Bowen Insurance Agency; Edgar Chambers, of Parks-Chambers, Inc.; J. P. Allen, of J. P. Allen & Company; E. A. Wachendorf, of Wachendorf Brothers; Eugene L. Pearce, of A. G. Rhodes & Son; Gordon Donaldson, of Donaldson-Woods Company; J. J. Nicholson, of F. W. Woolworth Company; Fair Dodd, president, Atlanta Mortgage Lenders' Association; W. R. Beck, president, Atlanta Association of Building Owners and Managers; and Frank Carter, president, Atlanta Bar Association.

SPRING OPENING TODAY OF DUNAWAY GARDENS

Atlanta's attending the spring opening of the Hettie Jane Dunaway gardens near Newnan, may leave here by bus at 9:10, 2:30 and 3:30 o'clock today and tomorrow for Newnan where they will be met by committee members of the Atlanta Woman's Club, which is sponsoring the event, and taken by automobile to the gardens, it was announced yesterday. Returning bus schedules from Newnan are 11:30, 3:30 and 6:30 o'clock, all daylight saving Atlanta time.

Special entertainment has been arranged for each day. At 2 o'clock both days old plantation dances will be presented in spiritual pageants featured by the singing of "Gospel Train." The Fontaine School of Dancing members will present a program of dance diversions at 4 o'clock today and an additional program by the plantation negroes will be given at 4 o'clock tomorrow.

The Hettie Jane Dunaway gardens are said to be among the finest in the south.

JAIL CONSTRUCTION PROBE IS LAUNCHED

Representatives of the investigation division of PWA yesterday began a survey of workmanship and materials used in the new city jail and will file a written report of their findings with Mayor Key.

The probe was inspired by two sensational escapes from what was supposed to be an "escape-proof" jail within three months.

The mayor announced he would make no more payments on the jail until convinced that the materials and workmanship are not responsible for the escapes.

Hacksaws are not needed to gain freedom from the iron bars guarding the prisoners, it was shown at a conference held at Mayor Key's office. A pen knife was all that was needed to cut a portion of a bar held in the mayor's office. The task did not damage the blade of the knife.

CITY OFFICE IS OPENED BY EMORY UNIVERSITY

A downtown office at 1250 Citizens & Southern Bank building has been opened by Emory University, with Robert C. Mizell, of the class of 1911, in charge, it was announced yesterday by the university council.

Mr. Mizell was elected recently to the Emory staff as a member of the university council and as an adviser to the board of trustees on real estate holdings and other business affairs of the institution. The telephone number at the new downtown office is Main 8733.

GAME COMMISSIONER VICTIM OF AUTO THIEF

Zack Craver, state fish and game commissioner, is on foot today, all because some enterprising young automobile thief was lacking in respect for the dignity of the commonwealth of Georgia.

Commissioner Craver parked his car on Washington street in front of the capitol building yesterday. When he returned a few hours later the machine had disappeared. The commissioner reported the theft to the Atlanta police department.

Breathing in Paper Bag Urged As Cure for Seasickness

PHILADELPHIA, May 3.—(AP)—If you get carsick, buy a bag of peanuts, throw the nuts away, and hold the bag over your nose while you breathe. It's a cure, announced today at the American College of Physicians' meetings.

Try it also on seasickness and plane sickness. Any kind of paper bag will do, and it should cure these as well as car sickness under a theory of these ills described today.

Coronary thrombosis, the heart disease so fatal to high pressure brain workers, lost a little of its fearfulness today in announcement of certain newly found heart troubles which have been mistaken for the thrombosis.

A remedy for toe itch—ringworm of the toes—which is frequently fatal to diabetic persons, was also announced. It was developed for the antibiotics, but may work also for the more widespread itch which afflicts healthy persons without endangering their lives.

How It Works.
The car sickness treatment was found during a study of "hyper-ventilation" of the human system described by Dr. William J. Kerr, of San Francisco.

Hyper-ventilation shows itself in the taking of big breaths and the familiar long sighs that follow. They are the body's way of regaining its auxiliary-acidity balance.

In studying the ills due to this balance, Dr. Kerr found that too much alkalinity may cause convulsions like those of tetany, and other troubles, included in this same cycle are the varying forms of seasickness.

The remedy for them would be an increase in acidity. This he obtained for car sickness sufferers by increasing their breathing of carbon dioxide.

As carbon dioxide is a natural product of the human breath, holding a paper bag over the nose effectively raised the carbon dioxide, and acidity, Dr. Kerr said that holding the breath for 15 seconds should have about the same effect as the paper bag.

He said that experiments have not been made on seasickness and plane sickness, but that they probably will be attempted.

Heart Explanation.
The heart trouble which has been mistaken for coronary thrombosis is "acute cor pulmonale," or acute pulmonary heart disease. It is a painful strain on the right side of the heart, which pumps the blood into the lungs.

This strain is due entirely to back pressure from the lungs, which in turn is due, in all the cases reported today, to embolism, or clotting in the lungs. These new diagnoses were reported by Paul W. White, M. D., of Boston.

COUNCIL UNDECIDED ON VACANCIES TENURE

Decision on Length of Time Awaits Return of Attorney Savage.

Tenure of council members, which council Monday may elect to fill vacancies, yesterday was a matter of conjecture.

A division of legal opinions was awaiting the return to Atlanta of City Attorney Jack C. Savage before definite tenure is settled, it was announced by James T. Osburn, chairman of the city democratic executive committee.

Councilmen C. W. Childs, fifth ward; Joseph E. Bernan, fourth ward; and Alderman J. Sid Tiller, third ward, are expected to file their resignations with council at Monday's session.

Under a recent act of the Georgia assembly reducing the size of council, terms of all members which normally would expire this year were extended to next year, and the question is whether, if council elects a successor, that successor shall serve for the entire unexpired term or whether it is mandatory to hold a special primary to designate a successor to hold over into next year.

Osburn yesterday was of the opinion no primary would be necessary. He attempted to contact Savage but

'Send-a-Dime' Chain Letter Plan Spreads Like Fire in Dry Grass

Hoey Long has his "share the wealth" plan. Dr. C. N. Townsend has his "$200-a-month pension" plan, but some modern prototype of the mighty Barnum has devised the "send-a-dime" chain letter plan, much to the disgust of letter carriers in Atlanta, Denver and a hundred other cities.

The "send-a-dime" chain letter plan is simplicity itself, which is more than can be said for the plans of either Senator Long or Dr. Townsend. Operating on the proposition of geometrical progression an individual can receive a maximum of $1,520—provided the chain is unbroken.

Lon Livingston, Atlanta postmaster, reported last night a slight increase in the volume of mail in the city had been noted. It is expected, however, that it will become a deluge within the next week and plans have been completed for the putting to work of additional carriers and clerks.

The "send-a-dime" chain has been declared illegal by the postoffice department in Washington. However the letters flow merrily in due to the fact that everyone apparently has a chance to receive $1,520 within the space of a few short days. Even the Louisiana Kingfish has been unable to assure his supporters of such rapid distribution of wealth.

Officials in the postal inspector's office here are of the opinion, after study, that the chain is a fraud. But every person passing on a chain letter would be guilty of conspiracy to use the mails to defraud in that event and even the government would have difficulty in placing some millions of people on trial at the same time, they point out.

And it is a fact that millions are engaged in sending on their dimes and letters, according to reports from various parts of the country. The plan started in Denver and is still in full swing. It has since spread to Los Angeles where "professionals" are reported to be taking advantage of the occasion to reap a harvest not only of dimes and quarters, but of dollars.

Mason City and Des Moines, Iowa, have been inundated by similar letters and they are even circulating extensively in Washington.

Sliding Sugar Tax Approved in Cuba

HAVANA, May 3.—(AP)—The cabinet approved a decree today setting a tax of from one-quarter cent to one cent per sack on sugar milled. The tax will be paid by the mill owners to support the Association of Mill Owners.

HARVEY-MASSENGALE ADDS BOTT TO STAFF

Atlanta Advertising Agency Announces Acquisition of Noted Adman.

The Harvey-Massengale Company, located in the Walton building, has announced the appointment of Leo P. Bott Jr., previously of the Bott Advertising Agency of Little Rock and recently of New York city, as a member of their staff, serving as account executive. Mr. Bott will also create special departments for community advertising, direct mail, etc. He has brought to this agency a number of accounts.

Mr. Bott is credited with having originated the series of dental educational messages which resulted in approval by the American Dental Association, giving dentists throughout the United States the privilege of resorting to educational publicity in like manner. This was a shot heard around both the dental and advertising worlds a few years ago. He also handled the first advertising for professional baseball, featuring the Little Rock team of the Southern league.

Through advertising he was able to locate two children who had been lost in a cyclone 15 years previously and he has other noteworthy achievements to his credit. His clientele extended from Alaska to France, with contacts throughout the south, many sections of the United States and even to foreign countries. He is known in advertising circles as "That Fellow Bott."

Silver Exportation Banned by Peru

LIMA, Peru, May 3.—(AP)—A cabinet decree prepared late last night and made public today prohibited exportation of silver from Peru, either in bars or in coin.

The measure, taken to meet the serious situation created by the rise of world silver prices, also prohibits hoarding of silver. Heavy penalties for violations were stipulated.

The Beautiful Derelict

BY CAROLYN WELLS

WHAT HAS HAPPENED BEFORE: Fleming Stone, famous detective, is on a coast liner when a drifting yacht is sighted in a fog the day after an American cup race. With the captain's permission, Stone goes with a lifeboat crew and discovers two dead men aboard the beautiful craft, the Mad Anthony, one young Barry Wayne, the owner, and Eileen Van Zandt, a guest. It develops that Van Zandt went with Barry to see the race when Jane Holt's father, Stephen, would not let her go alone with Barry, her fiancé. Medical testimony indicates that Barry was killed soon after the start by a blow on the head and that Van Zandt died from stomach ulcers. Barry was the son of Daniel Webster Wayne and passed his summers with him and Dan's brother, Patrick Henry Wayne, on their estate at Sand Hill, Nantucket Island. United States Attorney Demarest welcomes Stone's offer to work on the mysterious case. Mrs. Vera Van Zandt frankly tells Stone she didn't love her husband. A laboratory report shows that metallic sodium, not stomach ulcers, killed Van Zandt. Jane says Barry flirted with Vera to make her jealous, thinking she did not love him as much as he loved her. This Stone finds a packet of white unsharpened pencils. Fingerprints on the picture frame disappear. Stone is interested in the fact that Rod Campion, Barry's chum, as well as the Wayne brothers are handy with a gun. The Wayne family owns a big house on the island. Stone's stumpy lecturers, Stone inspects those collected by the little nephew of Mrs. Muggle, the Wayne housekeeper. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT XIX.

"No," the inspector said, sternly. "But never mind that now. Did you go on board?"

"What if I did?" and Rod's lower lip quivered, a sure sign of worry with him.

"Nothing much," Stone intervened. "We're just collecting data, and you can fill in a little."

"I don't know anything to fill in with."

"Why did you go on board?" Stone urged him.

"I went to see if Jane Holt was there."

"Didn't you know the men weren't on board?"

"I wasn't sure," Rodney was regaining his swagger air. "And I did not care whether they were or not, if Jane was there."

"And no one was on the yacht?"

"Nobody at all."

"What did you do?"

"I poked about a bit, admiring the fittings of the craft, and especially my own bits of handicraft."

"What were they?" Stone inquired.

"Just some little tricks like a way to open the refrigerator with your foot, and a chute sort of thing that propelled waste stuff down and out into the sea. It's my hobby to make such things as that."

"A mighty convenient hobby," Stone said. "And here are the oars coming in. Let's go down and greet the crowd."

Rodney was as good as his word. He chatted easily with Jane and Vera and the Wayne brothers, he was cordial to Steve Holt, and friendly with Ming. At last, without seeming to do so, Stone managed to get Pat Wayne alone in his laboratory.

Fleming Stone and Pat Wayne sat in silence for a moment and then Stone said, "Young Campion is a well set up lad. I took quite a fancy to him."

"Yes, a good boy," said Pat. "He was a chum of Barry's."

"Was he, that is, a sort of handy man about the house?"

"Oh, yes, though I taught him about all he ever knew. But he had a knack of making little things that would really go. I like that sort of thing, too, and we worked together more or less. But he has a besetting sin of carelessness that drives me wild. I can't abide to see fine tools spoiled by misuse."

"Nor I. It is a real pity, and so unnecessary."

Pat nodded his assent.

"I see you have a fine camera," Stone went on. "Did you ever take pictures of the yacht?"

"Yes, but not many nor good ones."

Pat opened a cabinet drawer. "Here are some pictures for you. Those are all photographs of the Mad Anthony, taken by an expert photographer. Like 'em?"

"Indeed, yes; they are magnificent."

And they were. The yacht on the high seas, in a calm, even in a storm (with trick work), and off the beach of Nantucket.

"Any interiors?"

"Yes, but these are mostly the plans of the designer, a great naval architect, who planned the boat."

They showed a number of cubbyholes and even a view below, where Barry received his death blow.

Stone was about to pass this over, but Pat said, "No, let me look at it."

Stone looked at it, too, and said, slowly, "Is there any Campion's work in view?"

Pat rifled over the pictures and selected two or three which showed a few simple bits of Campion's ingenuity, and one rather complicated rack of bottles that looked like a milkman's basket, but was more ornate.

"I say," and Stone's face lit up with the gleam of success. "I believed we have it! Have you ever been over the yacht yet?"

"No," Stone said. "I don't know if we won't let us go on board for a time—until the yacht is restored to us."

"They'll let me go," Stone confidently. "And I'll bet they'll let me take you along with me. And I know the killer."

"You do? Tell me, quick!"

"What would you say to Rodney Campion?"

Owing to Stone's amicable relations with United States Attorney Demarest, he had no difficulty in obtaining permission to visit and explore the Mad Anthony, taking with him Inspector Cox and Pat Wayne.

Demarest met his three visitors at New London, Conn. and the United States Attorney fell into conversation with Stone and Pat Wayne. Let Stone through some of the yacht's less conspicuous nooks and crannies, each of which had its own definite use.

"Perfect building," Stone said, admiringly. "And this yacht is yours, now, Mr. Pat."

"Yes," Pat sighed. "But it was always communal property. Dan and I gave it to Barry, but we all used it at will. Dan doesn't care quite so much for sailing, but Barry and I were devoted to it. Now, it belongs to us, but I doubt if I shall use it for some time, probably not at all. We loved that boy, and this boat is full of memories."

At the hatchway Wayne led the way down the steps. He scrutinized the engine, and fingered a few of the mechanical parts in a workmanlike way.

"Marvelous gear," he said; "every known new bit of invention, and more, too."

He pulled out a sort of bar, attached at one end, and let it go back slowly.

Stone looked at the bar with interest. He had what is called a photographic memory, to such a degree that he was sure this rod or bar was not shown in the photographs he had seen.

"What is it?" he asked.

"The beginning of a bit of invention Barry recently started. It's a sort of a self-starter for the motor, and when completed can be used from the deck above. The boy planned it entirely, and his work on it was delayed by some superior care quite an arrive on time. Then he became interested in something else and half forgot about it. I think I'll try to finish it. It's a clever idea."

They went on looking over the various details of the engine, built by the foremost experts, and Stone expressed surprise that Barry would tamper with the delicate machinery.

"He was a delicate machinist himself," Pat said, simply. "He could have made a fortune from his inventions had he chosen to apply himself."

They went on, and in the cabin Stone saw again the framed photograph, with its inscription, "Barry from Jane."

He well remembered when he first saw it; then the names meant nothing to him; now, he knew Jane, and almost better still, he felt he knew Barry.

"You like Miss Holt?" Pat asked, casually.

Stone with an equal nonchalance returned, "In some ways very much, in others, not at all."

"In what ways not at all?" and Pat looked amazed.

"I'm afraid our conversation is more personal than it ought to be, but I'm willing to reply. When she is her own sweet, natural self, I like her exceedingly; but when she ape's the ways and manners of others, she is to me, not so attractive."

"Meaning, when she tries to act like the more sophisticated Vera?"

"Yes; or like anyone she admires or envies. Why does she stay here? Her fiancé is dead, her father is not a general favorite, she is not really friendly with Mrs. Van Zandt. She must have hosts of friends of her own age who would be glad to have her visit them."

"There's Rodney Campion; have you forgotten him?"

"Yes, I know he admires her. But is his regard returned?"

"It's hard telling these days. Who can read the hearts of the present generation of young thoughtlessly and spoiled? But I feel that if Rod Campion were to go away, there would be small attraction here for Jane Holt."

Inspector Cox and Demarest came along just then, and joined the pair in the cabin.

"Found anything?" asked Cox, with interest.

"Not a thing," Wayne told him. "I don't see how you investigators know which way to turn next."

"Sometimes we don't," admitted Demarest. "I've been in places where it seemed I'd reached the very end of all probably or possible solutions."

"And yet you won out?" Stone said, smiling.

"In those desperate cases, usually, yes."

"I think," said Cox, in his matter-of-fact way, "that I have learned all I can from this yacht. It's my habit to go out on a thing thoroughly, and then consider it finished. No matter how long you keep on, you can't draw blood from a turnip. I'm through with my search here, and I'm ready to go. How about the rest of you?"

"I'm ready, but for one thing," Stone declared. "I'd like Mr. Wayne, to take a book from the shelf, if I may. It's that old Marchesa book, the big blue one. I read it many times years ago, and I'd like to run through again. May I?"

"Most assuredly, Mr. Stone. It's Don's book, and he'll be glad to talk with you about it. Barry was fond of it, too. All right, then; shall we all go now? Perhaps Mr. Demarest will let us come over here again some day—not Inspector Cox, but the rest of us?"

"At any time," returned the United States attorney. "And if there is any way whatever in which I can be of use to you, just tell me frankly, and depend upon my aid."

A strong breeze was blowing as they made the home run, and as Stone shifted the large book he was carrying, a tiny scrap of paper blew out from it and flew wildly into the white-caps.

"Valuable!" asked Stone, with a glance of apology at Pat.

Wayne laughed, and said, "No, indeed, I think it was a postcard stamp, probably put in to hold a place."

A LITTLE SATURDAY TALK.

"When April steps aside for May, like diamonds all the rain-drops listen. Fresh violets open every day; to some new bird, each hour we listen."

Thus wrote a poet, Larcum, about the joy and freshness which May gives to people in most parts of the north temperate zone.

There is doubt as to the reason for the name of May. Some say it arose from the Latin term, "Majores," meaning "older men," who were honored in Rome during the month.

It seems more likely, however, that May was named after Maia, a goddess who was believed to be the daughter of Atlas and the mother of Mercury. Maia held power over growth, and may be classed as a goddess of the springtime. The Romans set aside the first of May for her, her day coming in the midst of the feast of the Floralia.

During the time of the Roman emperors, the Floralia lasted from April 28 to May 3. It was named for Flora, goddess of flowers.

May Day has been an important holiday in Europe for many centuries. In France, Germany and Eng-

DOES NOT SUCK PEOPLE DOWN

People and animals have been known to sink out of sight and drown in quicksand, just as in water. There is no force other than gravity which draws them downward. There is no suction in quicksand any more than in water. When a person tries to pull his leg out of quicksand, he may feel this movement hindered by a suction produced by the pulling. This suction, however, does not draw him deeper.

land, it was long the custom to have a Maypole set up in each village, and for youths and maidens to dance around it. The Maypole was chosen crown of flowers. The Maypole custom is carried on to this day in some parts, but is not nearly so common as it was in times gone by.

During the past half century, May Day has grown to be important as a labor holiday.

Among the famous men who were born in May are Horace Mann, American educator; Robert Browning, English poet; Edward Jenner, English doctor; Alighieri Dante, Italian poet, and Ralph Waldo Emerson, American writer.

Famous women of May include Florence Nightingale, the Empress Catherine II of Russia, and Queen Victoria.

Today Is Heavily Backed as Derby Track Begins To Dry Out

CHURCHILL DOWNS, LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 3.—It's the day before Derby day at the Downs and it is therefore the usual period of madness, and so let's get around town and look on for awhile.

A special train arrives from New York called "The Colonels' Train" and on it are the comedians, Wheeler and Woolsey, among others on the list of Kentucky colonels.

An orchestra is at the station, piano and everything. And as the train comes to a halt the orchestra strikes up the strains of "My Old Kentucky Home."

As the colonels alight from the train, smiling waiters serve frosted mint juleps from great trays. The colonels stand there sipping the traditional Kentucky drink, burying their noses in the green mint.

There are cheers, singing and the crowd disperses, going to their hotels. There are special parties for the colonels and today Governor Ruby Laffoon, who created most of the great army of colonels, made himself a colonel so he could attend the parties as one of the boys. For all I know, the admirals are holding a party somewhere else. There are almost as many Kentucky admirals as there are colonels.

This afternoon Wheeler and Woolsey, the latter with the cigar and horn-rimmed glasses, were a feature at the Downs.

The seats are all gone, the last of the boxes, with 100 new ones added this year going for $200 each.

RELIEF HOTELS CLOSED.

The greatest story of the day was from relief headquarters, where it was announced they had closed their doors. So many transients had got the Derby fever that the relief headquarters refused to take any more and urged near-by cities to keep their relief cases at home. They arrived by freight cars, hitch-hiking and by any other fashion. But they got here.

Always it is that sort of a crowd. Today I stood and heard a brass-haired gal give a fancy bawling out to her slim escort. It seemed he had refused to listen to her advice at Agua Caliente and at Jamaica and at other tracks. They were part of the crowd that follows the races from track to track.

This morning newsboys from Atlanta gave me an effusive greeting at the gates to the Downs, where they were selling papers. They needed just a little help and would like, especially, to get into the grounds. But there isn't a ticket left.

It is a crowd which is tossing money around recklessly, this one which has gathered here. The bars are jammed nightly and the cost of the drinks at the better ones runs from 40 cents to 90 cents and $1 each. And these crowds buy by the hour.

The stores are also getting a good play and the restaurants and hotels are reaping their annual harvest.

Someone has brought back spending. This is the greatest spending year since the depression struck us in 1929, and there is no getting around that.

Money is in circulation again and it seems to me the man in the White House must have done it.

JACK DEMPSEY ARRIVES.

Jack Dempsey was here this morning, arriving along with Mrs. Dempsey, who is the mother of young Hannah Dempsey, the 1-year-old baby in the family, is the former Hannah Williams, a stage beauty of New York. And she has lost none of her beauty.

Dempsey looked to be in great condition. His eyes, infected by one of the wrestlers in a recent match which Dempsey refereed, were giving him trouble, but he was not worried despite the fact his dark glasses gave him a disguised appearance.

The former heavyweight boxing champion, and the most popular one the game ever saw, is backing the Whitney horse today in the running of the Derby.

GREAT NAMES.

While there are many cities here who would look well in stripes, and while the relief headquarters are jammed with penniless, the big names are also here.

There is Dempsey. There is Postmaster-General Jim Farley. There are governors galore, including our own from Georgia, who arrived today along with some of his staff. Senators are a dime a dozen. Congressmen attract no more attention here than in Washington, which is practically none at all.

The Drexel-Biddles are here. So are the Whitneys. Rudy Vallee is here. So is Richard Halliburton, the writer on the romantic view of travel. Presidents of great corporations are here.

It is a parade of humanity that doesn't really gather anywhere else except for the running of the Kentucky Derby.

THE DERBY HORSES.

It is just a guess, picking the winner in the Derby. So many things can happen. There can be bumping at the start. There can be interference. There can be boxing. Now and then a Broker's Tip beats a good horse like Head Play because a jockey goes haywire.

And so today the great Friday crowd tried to pick the winner from what looks like a poor field of colts and one filly, Nellie Flag.

I think this is a race for the boy horses because I do not think a girl horse can win at a mile and a quarter. And if Nellie Flag does, it means simply that the colts are a poor lot.

Somewhere else I have included my poor guess at the first four horses as Omaha, Boxhorn, Nellie Flag and Commonwealth. But what is going to be done with Roman Soldier, Plat Eye, Sun Fairplay and others? Still, one has to guess somewhere. And that favorite, the C. V. Whitney colt, today, is in the race. And favorites have won here 29 times in 60 races.

Tomorrow comes the big madness, and what the morrow holdeth no one will know until just about dark tomorrow afternoon when the winner's number goes up. Until then, good night.

Edison High Nine Bows to Leary, 10-3

LEARY, Ga., May 3.—On Wednesday afternoon the Leary High School boys defeated the Edison High School boys by a score of 10 to 3. Out of 10 games the Leary High boys have won 9. They have won four from Morgan, two from Arlington, one from Edison and two from Elmore.

Court Brewer and W. Vines are on the pitching staff with R. Wiggins on the receiving end. At first they have W. Dozier with Wilkerson at second. At third they have C. Melvin with Vines or Brewer at short. In the outfield they have B. Morris, E. Gwin and Brown, which completes the lineup for the team. They have a game with Elmore on Friday, which should turn out to be a good game.

Americus Is Host To Sandlot Teams

AMERICUS, Ga., May 3.—(AP)—Teams in the south Georgia bracket of the state sandlot baseball championship tournament under auspices of the American Legion, will play here with the date yet to be fixed. Frank Stapleton, commander of the local post, said the south bracket would include teams below Macon. The north bracket composed of all cities and towns above Macon, will play at Rome. The winners of the two brackets will meet in Macon for the play-off in a state series to determine the Georgia entry in the national sandlot championships.

HARRIS CLOUTS THREE TRIPLES; BUSTER HOMERS

Club Compiles 23 Hits in Sixth Straight; Durham Relief Star.

By Jimmy Jones.

If the old axiom of the frontiersmen that the only good Indians are dead ones still holds good, those ferocious Memphis Chickasaws ought to be models of propriety this morning. The "trail of tears" that the Cherokees followed to the west was nothing as compared to the ordeal the Chickasaw tribe underwent yesterday at Ponce de Leon park, when the Crackers, wielding the bickory instead of the tomahawk, massacred Freddy Hoffman's noble redmen, 19-7.

Out of the shambles of 23 base hits emerged some fantastic feats, including three blistering triples from the bat of Sheriff Dave Harris, who did not enter the fray until the fifth inning, when he battled for James, and every player in the Cracker line participated in the slaughter with at least one hit.

HILL CLIMBS. Johnny Hill, the 23-year-old rookie third-baseman, from the sandlots of Douglasville, Ga., playing his first year of professional ball, led the parade with four, including two doubles. Manager Eddie Moore and Harris had three apiece and Oana, three.

Under the impetus of this display of manpower, the Crackers slipped into first place in the league standings for the first time this season, as the Chattanooga Lookouts bowed to Birmingham, 2-1, and slipped out of the lead.

Three Chickasaw pitchers walked the gangplank during the gory proceedings, starting with Big Ed Greer, who was followed by Glenn Liehardt Jr., ex-Cracker and son of the Memphis star of 1906 who set the all-time league record of 35 victories, and finally by Tom Sweeney, a left-hander, who was left swaying amid the ruins when the Crackers closed out the scoring jambooree in the eighth with four runs.

DURHAM STOPS 'EM. And save a sprig of laurel for the brow of stocky Bud Durham, the rookie from the Piedmont league, who went to "Budd" Thomas, a left-hander, in the fifth, squelched a menacing uprising by the Chickasaws and gave them their third hit and one run from then on out.

Thomas, who worked the four innings required under league rules, received credit for the victory, but Durham, who duplicated his fine job of relief pitching in saving the second game at Birmingham last Sunday, really deserves the pitching praise for putting the screws on the hard-hitting Chickasaws after they had come up to within three runs of the Crackers' 8-1 lead in the fifth.

The Crackers, apparently intent on sweeping their foes before them from the start, drove Greer, a former Texas league winner, from the box in the second inning after "Prince" Oana's solid single to left, scoring Thomas and Hill.

LIEBHART ROUTED. Liehardt came in here and wiggled out of the jam after Harry Taylor had soaked him for a triple and was touched for a home run into the left field stands by Buster Chatham, first man up in the third. Liehardt, a right-hander, also, stood the gaff until the fifth, when another fusillade sent him to the showers, to be followed by Sweeney, the frail left-hander, after Oana beat out an infield hit, scoring the Crackers' eleventh run.

Sweeney swayed like a sapling before a storm, precipitated by Harris, a right-handed hitter, who was sent in to hit against the southpaw. Swanned up on him with a triple to right center, scoring Moore, who had singled, and Oana.

The storm reached crescendo in the eighth when Harris slapped out his third triple to score Hill and Oana with his fourth run batted in. Even the Crackers' pitchers, Thom-

RIVERSIDE BOWS TO BOYS' HIGH

Boys' High increased its lead in the Big Eight baseball race with a 4-to-3 victory over Riverside Military Academy Friday afternoon on the Henry Grady field.

Johnny Echols, a third baseman, pitched the Purples to victory, and did a good job of it. He let the Cadets down with only eight hits, and, except for the ninth inning, kept them well scattered. His team was leading, 4 to 1, as the inning opened and an error aided Riverside in its rally, which netted two runs.

Mims and Brown divided hitting honors for the Purples with two each, while A. J. Thomas, a left-hander, pitched the Cadets to a 3-2 victory over the Aggies.

Slayton, McKee, Mock and Hulseby divided hitting honors for the Aggies, with Hulseby driving in the winning run in the eighth. The Aggies stole six bases.

The pitching of M. Harris and the catching of his brother, H. Harris, of the Aggies, featured the last four innings. The last four innings were 10-2 to 2 to 2 to 2.

Commercial 10-2 to 2 to 2 to 2.

COLUMBUS, Ga., May 3.—(AP)—The Columbus Industrials, who had gained revenge for a previous defeat at the hands of Commercial the earlier part of the season by trouncing the Atlanta Thrashers to the tune of 10 to 2 here today.

Timely hitting gave the locals a big lead early in the game. The Jacks drove Drake, 19 to 6, in the third, and the Crackers in the fourth. Neil, who relieved him, held the Columbus school club fairly well in check until the last part of the contest.

Nellie Flag, Today Derby Co-Favorites

Heavy Track Is In Prospect at Downs; Record Crowd To See Classic.

By Alan Gould.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 3.—(AP)—Having demonstrated its capacity to survive fire or flood, good times or bad, America's most spectacular horse race will be run off tomorrow on the storm-tossed crest of a wave of carnival enthusiasm.

Converging on the racing capital of the Bluegrass country by land, river and air, the gathering of the clans was of such proportions that night that a record outpouring of 90,000 spectators was anticipated for the 61st Kentucky Derby at picturesque Churchill Downs.

The famous track was socked deep in mud today after a series of terrific thunderstorms but it escaped damage from the wind and lightning which left a trail of wreckage elsewhere in the vicinity. Clearing skies today greeted the gathering throngs and forecast the likelihood of a good track, even if a trifle heavy, by Derby post time, approximately 4:45 p. m. (central standard).

Twenty-two three-year-olds, including the crack filly Nellie Flag, co-favorite for the race with the colt, today, have been named for the test of speed, courage and stamina over the route of one mile and a quarter. Opposing thoroughbred lines are sharply drawn for another dramatic racing duel between favorites of the east and west, with indications pointing to a wide open stretch battle and one of the closest finishes in years.

by will have a gross value of $50,000, if all entries go to the post, and be worth $46,125 net to the winner. The expectation, however, is that no more than 17 of the Derby starters will be in the race, and that the purse will be $40,000. The race is will respond to the bugle call and parade past the packed stands to the time-honored strains of "My Old Kentucky Home."

There were few surprises when the Derby entries were dropped in the box this morning. Warren Wright, Chicago sportsman, nominated Calumet Dick, a son of Gallant Fox, as a running mate for the highly regarded colt. The colt is not likely to go to the barrier. Jonett Shouse's Weston, J. J. Flanagan's Chancieview and T. C. Worden's Prince Splendor were regarded as other doubtful starters.

OMAHA DRAWS NO. 11. Omaha, the gangling son of Gallant Fox and big hope of the Belair stud, owned by William Woodward, of New York, got somewhat the worst of the Derby for position, as Omaha drew No. 11, outside of Nellie Flag, but the eastern colt is a bad starter and likely to get tangled up if there's an early jam, whereas the filly has the starting speed to work clear of interference.

Today, which showed a keen edge in breezing a half mile through the sloppy going this morning in 47.25 seconds, also has plenty of early foot and should not be handicapped by starting from No. 10 position. Mrs. Walter M. Jeffords' Commonwealth is next to the Brandon stable's Tuticurio, on the extreme outside. The rail position was drawn by E. D. Sharf's long shot, St. Bernard, with Roman Soldier No. 2.

The inundated condition of the track has altered relatively few of the expert prognostications on the outcome of the Derby for position, as the Downs oval has a contrary habit of offering better footing after a heavy rainstorm than following a prolonged dry spell. This is ascribed to peculiar subsoil conditions and rapid drainage. Barring further downpour, the racing strip may respond rapidly enough to treatment to be considered fast for the Derby.

COMMONWEALTH. Commonwealth, which showed a distinct fancy for the mud as a two-year-old, will attract much stronger backing if the track is heavy. Nellie Flag, Plat Eye, Today and Roman Soldier all are rated able to do their best in any kind of footing, but the railbirds say Boxhorn, owned by the noted Kentucky sportsman, Colonel E. R. Bradley, doesn't like a sticky track. It will be a big blow to the home talent if Boxhorn doesn't.

NELLIE FLAG CLOSE SECOND AMONG BETTORS

McGill Rather Likes Omaha; No Outstanding Horses in Field.

By Ralph McGill.

filly to win the derby and if she loses it's the old, old story."

As a comparative neophyte in this business, I cannot believe a filly will win it. I still think there is a heman hoss in there somewhere, which can outfoot Nellie Flag. But I must admit that I am practically alone in this. The big play is for Nellie Flag and today.

Picking the heman horse is something else. I rather like Omaha, Boxhorn, Nellie Flag and Commonwealth as the first four horses, with Omaha as the probable winner. Close behind, and with a chance to break in, will be Plat Eye and Roman Soldier.

It would occasion no great surprise were any one of this group to win. I especially like Roman Soldier and Plat Eye as the dark horses in the race.

The first four, Omaha, Boxhorn, Nellie Flag and Commonwealth show a variety of post positions. Omaha is in eleventh position. Nellie Flag is next to him, in tenth. These are ideal positions for speed, which both of them have.

Commonwealth drew position No. 21, next to the outsider Roman Soldier, who is in third place, an excellent spot. Plat Eye is No. 17 in the post lineup.

The filly should run about third or fourth. I include Boxhorn because he is a Bradley horse and has worked well. But it is largely sentiment. The old master of the Idle Hour farm is a difficult man to quit. So great is his magic that he casts a sort of spell over each Derby race. He has won it four times. He has had first and second place twice. He has done about everything to the Derby except make it his own personal race. Boxhorn's post position is No. 10, which is not a bad one. But this does not deter his supporters.

COMMONWEALTH AILING. Commonwealth was reported a bit late today to be somewhat lame, but in a long walk to the stable brought no quick denial. But one never can tell. I would have named the big fellow ahead of Omaha, but for that report.

At any rate do not go along with this reporter too strongly on those first four horses. No one knows whether this field is made up of races or not. It is a combination of sprinter and stayer. Because a mile and a quarter is a real test. And as yet today has not proved he can yet 126 pounds and sprint with it a mile and a quarter.

Roman Soldier, Plat Eye and Sun Fairplay are all tough horses. The field is wide open. And anything not only can but likely will happen. So many outside things can change the race, bumping at the start, interference, a poor start or a bad ride. The best horse doesn't always win the Derby, all of which is a warning to the excitement and the thrill of the race as it spins through the mile and a quarter of madness punctuated by the drumming hooves of the thoroughbreds.

A GREAT CROWD. Preparations for handling the great crowd tomorrow include the supplementing of the police force with militia, something which has never been done before. There will be 500 soldiers here, but even so it is impossible to keep down the gate crashers.

The Derby will be run under perfect conditions as all indications point to a perfect day with a track which will be as fast as ever before in its history. It is a betting crowd, and if the day does hold perfect more than a million dollars should go into the mutual machines.

Every train is bringing in crowds, on the cushions and on the rods. Planes are running in four-plane sections. Busses, special trains and thousands of automobiles are pouring in at an almost unbelievable rate. Hotels, long since sold out, are jammed. It was almost impossible to sleep last night. Only a lashing

RECORDS FALL AS L. S. U. WINS

BATON ROUGE, La., May 3.—(AP) Records fell with third and individual brilliance shone today in the first day's contests of the annual two-day Southern Amateur Athletic Union's track and field meet.

Louisiana State University easily won the competition. The official score credited L. S. U. with 78 points, Southwestern Louisiana Institute, with 34, and Tulane with 33-34.

Two athletes, one a 16-year-old youngster with two more years of high school left, the other a Louisiana State University football and weight star, carried off individual honors each scoring 15 points.

The high school youngster, Billy Brown, of Baker, La., astounded spectators by a hop, step and jump performance of 48 feet 2-8 inches. He also won the high jump and the broad jump, making more than 23 feet in the latter.

The L. S. U. football star, Bill Crass, won the discus and 56-pound weight. Placed second in the javelin and third in the shot.

The L. S. U. football star, Bill Crass, won the discus and 56-pound weight. Placed second in the javelin and third in the shot.

The real record assaults of the tournament are to be made tomorrow in the so-called "senior" day when Glenn "Slats" Hardin, Torrance and Buddy Blair, of L. S. U., will compete, as well as Neugass and a fine field of other athletes.

ATLANTA STARS LEADING FIELD IN G.I.A.A. MEET

Purples and Smithies Dominate Events Held at Augusta.

AUGUSTA, Ga., May 3.—(AP)—At the annual meeting of the Georgia and Tech High, both of Atlanta, finished strong in the qualifying heats here today and served notice of their intention to monopolize honors in the annual Georgia Interscholastic Athletic Association meeting which closes tomorrow.

While the Capital City clans were taking complete charge of the track trials, Raymond Academy's golf team stroked its way to the top of the midway point of the 36-hole medal play tournament at the Augusta Country Club. The Augustans scored a team total of 327 to take a four-stroke lead over the Techs, while the Techs were in second place with 331.

The Savannah Blue Jackets placed third.

Banners of the two Atlanta institutions were hoisted even higher as Russell Bobbitt, Boys' High, and Gillespie, Tech High, advanced to the semifinals of the tennis tournament.

STARS ADVANCE.

Gillespie, seeded No. 1 and favored by many to take over the crown mantle, of Tech High, captured in the 1934 tournament, advanced by eliminating Mitchell, of Monroe, while Bobbitt, seeded No. 2, defeated Winn, of Riverside. Others to win berths in the semi-finals were Kelly, Lanier, who trounced Kesler, A. R. C., and Tyre, of Savannah, who vanquished Brown, of G. M. A.

Preliminary events in swimming, the concluding number on the program of the 1935 renewal, were held tonight.

The Lanier Poets of Macon pushed the Atlanta Aegreets for the lead positions in the track heats with Hodges, running in the second heat, clipping nearly two seconds from the 19 flat registered by Thrash, of Boys' High, as he took first place in the initial trials of the 120-yard high hurdles.

Hodges also showed speed in the 220-yard low hurdles and topped the timbers in 29 flat to better Thrash's initial mark of 32 seconds.

BELCHER WINS.

After Williams had extended his assault by taking first place in the initial 220-yard dash, Belcher, of Boys' High, raced the distance in 23.8, with second place going to Hawkins, of Lanier.

The individual links honors of the First round went to Brown, of Tech High, who carded a fine 78, six over par, to lead Cook, his teammate and nearest rival, by one stroke.

The summary:

100-Yard dash, time 10.6: First, Stevens, Boys' High; second, Pair, Tech High; third, Slaton, A. R. C. Second heat, time 10.6: First, Williams, Tech High; second, Hawkins, Lanier; third, Shirm, Savannah.

Leaders in Low Cost Housing Meet Here

Important officials and leaders in low-cost housing sponsored by the federal government are shown above as they surveyed a miniature model of Techwood, Inc., one of the major slum clearance developments being prosecuted here by PWA. They are attending the two-day housing conference sponsored by the Architectural Department of Georgia Tech. Shown, left to right, are: O'Neill Ford, of the Georgia FERA rural rehabilitation staff; Harold Bush-Brown, head of the Tech department of architecture and director of the conference; E. B. Johnson, subsistence homestead official, Washington; E. Draper, director of land planning and housing, TVA; Colonel Roger Black, chief of the management branch of the housing division, PWA. ### JURY CONDEMNS GOV. TALMADGE

ment, did not see fit to cite him for contempt. The indictment was drawn following the audition of four sworn witnesses.

The grand jury urged that investigations of recent escapes from the new city jail be thorough and that money yet due for the construction of the jail be withheld until the work comes up to the requirements for safety. Thinning prisoners. Guards and jailers at the jail were scored and the procedure of putting three confessed criminals in one cell was condemned. The Atlanta police department, in the opinion of the grand jury, is undisciplined. Atlanta's ratio of police, according to the presentments, is two and a half times lower than the average of 35 American cities of 250,000 or more population.

Power Asked for Chief.

A hands-off policy by all politicians was recommended for the force and the grand jury urged that Chief T. O. Sturdivant be given full leeway to accomplish the greatest possible results with the force at his command and then "hold him responsible." It was recommended that hiring and firing, promotion and demotion of all policemen and detectives be left entirely in the hands of their respective chiefs, and it was urged that no man be put on the force unless the chief first recommends him and asks for his appointment.

Taking a cue from the recent escapes from Atlanta's new "escape-proof" city jail, the grand jury recommended that roof-top bars be installed in the Fulton tower, which is now undergoing remodeling. Following inspection of Grady hospital, the grand jury recommended that a reasonable charge be made to cover hospitalization and physicians' attention in all emergency cases, where the patient is found able to pay and that similar charges be made for patients who are able to pay, and who are sent to the contagious ward.

Restrictions Scored.

Restrictions governing the admission of patients for treatment at the clinic at the Steiner cancer clinic were scored in the findings which pointed out that though the clinic is thoroughly equipped with the best known scientific treatment for cancer, persons who are not paupers cannot avail themselves of its unsurpassed advantages. "There are thousands of poor people in Atlanta who are not paupers and where they suffer with cancer they should be afforded all the benefits of Steiner clinic, and a fee in proportion to their means." This, the findings stated, would unquestionably carry out the intentions of the donor, the late Albert Steiner, who left approximately $750,000 for the establishment of the clinic for treatment of the poor.

Describing the present juvenile detention home as "a disgrace to our county," the grand jury recommended that the county take immediate action and build outright a new suitable fireproof building for the detention of juveniles or that a suitable building be leased. If the county is not in position to buy or lease a building at this time, the jury recommended that first expenses be put on the present building and numerous repairs be made at once.

Commending the management of the Battle Hill sanatorium, the grand jury recommended that the county's annual contribution to the maintenance of the institution, now $7,500, be increased to $15,000 annually, to provide for sufficient expansion to accommodate the 150 persons on the waiting list for admission there.

Pay Roll Hiked $165,000. It was brought out in the findings that increases in county personnel and salaries since the first of the year will increase the annual pay roll by $165,000.

Under the heading of "efficiency of employees," the grand jury set out in the findings that county employees receive higher salaries than are paid in the average private business enterprises. "This is due to the fact that in most cases employment is based primarily on political considerations rather than upon basis of ability, as practiced in private enterprises."

Proposals to purchase 150 acres of land near Cascade avenue for park purposes were recommended to the scrap heap as the presentments set out "we condemn the expenditure of $21,000 for parks at this time when there is such a great need for the extension of Battle Hill sanatorium and improvements at other necessary county institutions."

Condemnation of the increase in salaries in the municipal court was expressed in the findings as follows: "The associates of this court were already drawing excessive salaries for the rank of the court, namely $6,000 annually, which were raised to $7,500. Salary of the chief judge was raised from $7,500 to $8,400. It was pointed out that the salaries of the judges of the state supreme court—the highest court in Georgia—are only $7,000 annually."

Pardons Scored. Promiscuous pardoning of murderers, burglars, racketeers and other criminals who have been convicted and where there is no evidence that justice has been done, was scored by the jury as a violation of the trust imposed on the office of the state's chief executive.

Following inspections of the county's institutions, the grand jury put its stamp of approval on the management of the white and negro almshouses, the Georgia Training School for Girls, Grady hospital, the industrial, the county schools, county jail and the juvenile home.

NEW DEAL'S FATE STUDIED BY COURT; A. F. L. BACKS ACT

In congress of the receipt of many "grams from industry protesting the short projected extension. Formal report to the senate by its labor committee, urging enactment of the Wagner bill to replace NRA's section 7 (A) "to insure industrial peace."

A crowd which took up even standing in the supreme court chamber listened, intent, as the recovery act was defended by its chief administrator, Donald R. Richberg, and Solicitor General Reed, and as vigorously assailed by Attorney Frederick H. Wood and Joseph Heller.

SENATE RECESSES TO PREVENT VOTE ON BONUS BILL

down the interest from 4 to 2 percent on loans made by veterans against their bonus certificates. The Harrison measure would make earlier the payment date of the bonus by moving the inception of the obligation back to 1918 instead of 1925. This proposal, advanced by Senator Connally, democrat, Texas, and adopted by the senate without a record vote, would add $90,000,000 to the cost of the compromise. Under this, a veteran who had borrowed on his bonus would get $220 instead of $180, while certificates not loaned would yield $770.

This concession was not enough, however, to hold off the powerful cash bonus forces, even in the face of an emphatic warning from Harrison that his bill was the only one of the three that could receive presidential approval.

Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, asked if Harrison had any assurance the president would sign the compromise.

"I haven't the slightest doubt in the world," the canny Mississippian replied.

Forces Consolidated.

The cash bonus forces were consolidated after the senate, on motion of Senator Thomas, democrat, Oklahoma, amended the Vinson bill so that it actually appropriated the money for the bonus instead of merely authorizing the appropriation.

After the senate recessed Harrison warned that the friends of the bonus must either accept his compromise now or never.

Senator Gore, democrat, Oklahoma, injected the debt question into the debate with an amendment to authorize the president to make new debt agreements and use the proceeds to pay the bonus.

He contended that if the debtors would pay at all, they would pay when it was for the benefit of the soldiers who fought for them.

The amendment was hotly opposed by Senator Robinson, democrat, leader.

HOUSING ACTIVITY TOLD CONVENTION

The general subject for discussion at the night meeting was "Public Housing." It was non-technical and the general public was invited to attend. Colonel Horatio B. Hackett, architect, director of the housing division PWA, will deliver an illustrated lecture this morning on "General Aspects of the Low-Rent Public Housing Movement in the United States."

Colonel Roger D. Black, head of the management branch of the housing division PWA, will speak on "Operation and Management."

R. M. Pettit, chief of the branch for initiation housing division PWA, will speak on "Inauguration of Projects," and will give a complete exhibition of PWA housing.

William J. Sayward, architect on the University project, will speak during the morning and there will be a general round-table discussion of housing following the addresses. Reginald S. Fleet will be chairman of the morning meeting.

F. D. Burge, architect of Techwood, Inc., will speak on "The Evolution of Techwood" at a luncheon meeting to be held at the Georgia Tech dining hall at 1 o'clock this afternoon. Techwood will be visited for a survey and this will be followed by a survey of University project during the afternoon.

Among other who took prominent places on the program yesterday were: Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of Georgia Tech; Professor Harold Bush-Brown, head of the conference; Earl S. Draper, landscape architect, who was director of planning and housing of TVA; Charles S. Barber, architect for TVA; R. A. Wankam, architect for TVA; Charles E. Pynchon, who spoke on the "Purposes and Policies of Subsidized Home-Steeds Program"; Xavier Viceant, who spoke on "Subsidized Home-Steeds Construction Methods"; David R. Williams, chief of planning, FERA rural rehabilitation.

executive office. The president was wearing a dark gray suit. Behind him was the ubiquitous Gus Generech, his personal bodyguard. Mr. Roosevelt put a cigarette in a long yellow bone holder and lit it. A reporter asked if he would tell something about his conference with the advisory council.

Choosing his words carefully and toying with his glasses, the president cited a series of precedents to bear out his contention that business organizations frequently misrepresented their membership. He observed that businessmen generally, in his opinion, understood the true situation and that he would string along with the bulk of businessmen rather than their organizations.

The president leaned back in his comfortable swivel chair, adjusted his coat and smilingly remarked that he had made a speech to the council.

Case in Point. The first year he was in Albany as a member of the state legislature, he said, there had been the disastrous Triangle Shirt factory fire in New York city in which more than 100 girls perished because doors of the plant were locked.

An inquiry started in the legislature, he continued, of which Robert F. Wagner was chairman and Frances Perkins was secretary.

As a result of the investigation, the president went on, there was proposed a factory inspection law. The business was for it but the principal lobbyists and objectors were the chambers of commerce, manufacturers' associations and merchants' associations.

The same situation, he said, prevailed when the state of New York was attempting to put through the 54-hour bill for women and children in industry and the workmen's compensation act.

It was the chambers of commerce and others that spent thousands of dollars in vain efforts to defeat those measures.

Checkup Required. At this juncture the president paused. Then he pointed out that before the Triangle fire there had been statutes requiring safety devices, the laws being enforced by the businessman and manufacturer to enforce.

Reminding his audience that there had been a lot of letting business regulate itself, Mr. Roosevelt said he had shown the need of a checkup on enforcement by state, city or federal governments.

These cases he gave in explanation of the statements made at what he termed recent Washington meetings. Laughter ran around the room and he joined in. He became deadly serious a moment later, however, to say that the interesting thing to him in all the speeches was the conspicuous absence of the human side of the great national picture.

Europe Amazed. At this juncture, there were some glittering generalities about hating to see old people starve or that something must be done. This, he added ironically, was not exactly constructive criticism.

Mr. Roosevelt continued that his excursion into history was in explanation of statements made at recent Washington meetings. The correspondence between the president and Mr. Roosevelt slowly read a clipping of the United Press interview with Francis E. Powell, head of the American Chamber of Commerce in London.

Powell said that Europe was amazed at the stubborn fight of business against the New Deal and against that where praise was given it was done grudgingly.

Turning to the correspondents, the president inquired if they got the psychology of that.

Mr. Roosevelt concluded that so-called business associations were not indicative of the mass belief and that for his part he would go along with the businessmen.

FRANCE MAY AID

To bring Russia's railways up to date would cost about 3,500,000,000 francs (approximately $700,000,000), he said, on good report here and France was expected to provide the greater part of it.

INDEPENDENCE FIGHT URGED BY AMERICAN SOLONS

WASHINGTON, May 3.—(AP)—Filipinos were urged to abandon independence efforts in a minority report presented to the senate today by Senator McKellar, democrat, Tennessee, member of a committee which conducted an investigation in the Philippines.

The chairman of the investigating committee—Senator Tydings, democrat, Maryland, has not yet submitted the majority report.

McKellar's report charged that the new constitution frankly sets up a dictatorship in the islands because the Filipinos confessedly are not ready for a democratic or republican form of government.

RED LAWYER, AID

"Suddenly three cars drove up beside ours and stopped. Several masked men, with pistols, got out and walked over to us. They forced us to get out of the car, and into one of their machines. Mrs. Bartol screamed, but apparently no one heard her."

"The minute we got in the car we were slugged on the head with blackjacks, and knocked onto the floor in the rear seat. Then the men beat us as they drove."

"I was only half conscious, but it seemed to me that we drove for more than an hour, and I estimate we were taken about 30 or 35 miles from Gallup."

"It was raining hard, and the night was pitch black."

"After driving a long distance, during which they beat us often and cruelly, they stopped the cars, and we were thrown out into the highway. They drove off and left us."

Indian Scuror. "We walked all night long, and finally reached the hogan (house) of a Navajo Indian about noon today."

"He was kind to us, gave us something to eat, and then brought us to the Tobeachi hospital in his truck."

The Indian told of his surprise when the two weary, blood-soaked men walked up to his door and asked for aid.

of many high government leaders—had resulted in the seizure of several towns.

The woman leader, Salud Argrave, allegedly caused insurgents to commander weapons from six American sailors who were motoring through Cebu, Laguna province, while the town temporarily was in rebel hands.

The fighting at Cebu developed into a one-sided slaughter of salakistas, although several hundred of them were pitted against only 35 troopers. Fifty-two of the insurgent dead fell there.

For several hours the insurgents, rising in opposition to the projected new commonwealth government and Senator Manuel Quezon, foremost contender for the presidency, held Cebu and Santa Rosa, scene of the fiercest fighting.

Governor Held. They also held sway in San Ildefonso, Bulacan province, north of here, for a time, hauling down the American flag there and proclaimed Philippine "independence." They started to set up a sort of socialist regime but government officials soon moved against them successfully.

Governor Ramon Samonte, of Cavite province, was seized and held for a short time by insurgents there.

Political effects of the uprising cropped out quickly. A public dinner at which it was understood General Amelio Aguinaldo would announce his candidacy for the continued office of president was cancelled because some of his backers reputedly had planned to ask salakista support for him.

Governor General Frank Murphy was in White Sulphur Springs, Va., when word came that the New Deal was in New York city. Acting Governor General Joseph R. Hayden was in a mountain province on an inspection trip.

Army authorities here, with 8,000 well-equipped soldiers at their command, expressed no apprehension over possible trouble in Manila.

STORMS IN SOUTH
ARE FATAL TO 16 to 256 inches at Peoria, raised flood threats in several sections.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., May 3.—(AP)—Wind and electrical storms moving northward from Texas took an indirect toll of 16 persons in five states last night and early today.

Six states felt the fury of the freak spring storms, which severed communication and power lines, and caused heavy property damage. Arkansas counted its known dead at six, while a West Memphis physician, Dr. James Fall, said he had reliable reports five others, all negroes, were killed in scattered farming communities of southern Mississippi county.

There were dead in Kentucky and southern Indiana, and one each in Tennessee and Texas.

Efforts to obtain an accurate check of the dead and injured in northeast Arkansas were retarded by lack of communications. Ambulance drivers from Memphis, Tenn., across the river from the stricken territory, estimated the injured at 50. They worked all night in the rain.

All but one of the Arkansas dead were negroes. Mrs. Mary H. Fields, 58, was fatally injured at Dermott when her home collapsed during the storm.

Louisville, Ky., decked out for Derby Day, was visited by one of the squalls which unroofed 100 houses and 50 business buildings. The Derby course, Churchill Downs, was damaged slightly, and the lightning and thunder excited the high-strung animals awaiting race.

Thurman Berkeley, 38, was killed near Paris, Tenn., when his car ran off a highway during a blinding rain. A bolt of lightning killed a negro in Texas.

Heavy property damage was reported also in Tennessee and Louisiana, where power lines were put out of commission.

Damage to barns and farm buildings was reported from widely separated sections of Arkansas.

The youth is being held in Fairfield county jail under $45,000 bonds.

"See Things Through." Levinson said he would be able to identify two or three of his abductors, despite their hooded. He also could identify their cars.

Minor said he would return to Gallup, and "see this thing through."

Sheriff M. R. Carmichael and two unemployed were slain in the riot, which occurred when a group of unemployed protested the legal eviction of one of their number.

"I'm going to make this a bigger thing than the Mooney case," Minor said. He is a well-known communist writer, and former editor of the Daily Worker, communist party organ. Levinson said they would remain until a guard arrived and then return to Gallup.

"We are not going to be intimidated by any bunch of masked men," Levinson said. "We came here to aid these unemployed laborers who lack funds to obtain a defense in any other way, and we are going to see it through."

Minor was told that Gallup police officials charged that the reported kidnapping was a hoax, designed to gain sympathy for the cause of the accused men.

"If it was a hoax," he said, with a wry grin, "I'll have to admit we carried it pretty far to beat each other up like this."

Miss Kurtz Weds Mr. Fambrough At Lovely Afternoon Ceremony

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM FAMBROUGH.

At a beautiful afternoon ceremony solemnized at 5:30 o'clock Friday at the First Baptist church, Miss Nell Louise Kurtz, became the lovely bride of William Fambrough. A host of friends and relatives gathered to witness the marriage service which was officiated by Dr. Ellis Fuller, pastor of the church.

The interior of the handsome church presented a scene of floral beauty as arranged for the nuptials. Tall columns and ferns massed the rear of the pulpit and the choir loft. Silhouetted against the background of foliage were tall pedestals filled with white calla lilies and white peonies which alternated with floor standards topped with cathedral candles. A mound of calla lilies and peonies centered the altar, the arrangement being flanked on either side by candelabra holding white wax tapers. The pews reserved for members of the family connection were marked by sheaves of calla lilies tied with lustrous white satin ribbons.

Grief Program. George Lee Hamrick, organist of the church, rendered a lovely program composed largely of grief selections. The numbers included "Wedding Day at Trolldhaugen," "In the Morning" and "To Spring" by Grieg; "Day in Venice" by Noyen, and "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life" by Victor Herbert.

The bride's only sister, Miss Annie Laurie Kurtz, was her maid of honor. Her bridesmaid, Miss Jean Fambrough, served as bridesmaid. They were gowned alike in charming frocks of shell pink net over tulle of the same shade. From knee-length the form-fitting skirts flared to the floor and were finished with a series of three-inch ruffles. The bodices featured the off-the-shoulder line, with shoulder straps studded with tiny rosebuds and ruffles of net and caught in the gathers of the ruffles with tiny rosebuds and forget-me-nots.

Delphians Entertained By Mrs. Hutchinson

On Tuesday the Beta chapter of the Delphians assembled at the picturesque home of Mrs. W. M. Hutchinson on Ponce de Leon avenue to discuss the various topics contained in the Delphian Quarterly magazine. The living room, library and dining room were profusely decorated in spring flowers.

Each Delphian was requested to bring her dearest friend and make it a real "pal" day. As the guests and members arrived each was given a small identification tag made in the form and colors of the Delphian insignia, on the back of which was the name of the Delphian. The "The Best" (Denza) and the Beta chapter's song, "Not What We Have, But What We Do," were rendered by a quartet composed of Mrs. Lawrence Kirkland, Mrs. Carter Harrison, Mrs. C. L. Douglas and Mrs. E. R. Epperson, accompanied at the piano by Miss Lily Allen. Mrs. Carter Harrison, who had charge of the general discussion of the magazine topics, was introduced by Mrs. Lee Wisdom, president of the Beta chapter.

A buffet luncheon was served by Mrs. Lee Wisdom, Mrs. E. R. Epperson and Mrs. Charles H. Turner. The very clever entertainment program was in charge of Mrs. J. O. Mangum and Mrs. Thomas H. Thompson. Other members present and the guests were Mesdames William S. Johns, L. M. Bechuel, Charles Ward, A. Burdette, Major M. Payne, J. T. Lonsdale, W. M. Hutchinson, Sam Davidson, R. E. Osborne, Evelyn Jackson, R. J. Minahan, C. C. Shipp, Laurie Prichard, Alice Coulton, Guy Erdell, E. L. Hardy, J. E. Biggs, T. K. Moore, Lila Ellis, J. H. Merritt, Adeline W. Lamkin, Miss Mary Hutchinson and Miss Frances Flynn.

NEW YORK, May 3.—(P)—The

stock market snapped sharply into action today in the most assured demonstrated of rallying power it has displayed in more than a week.

Industrials and the seconding by power shares, were the main-stays of the push-up, and only the rails failed to exhibit any vigor on the upside.

The Associated Press average for 90 stocks was 3 of a point higher at 106.5, while the 30 industrial share of a point to 65.0.

FAVORABLE FACTORS

ARE NOTED IN TRADE

NEW YORK, May 3.—(P)—The

curb market resumed the advance today and activity broadened substantially. Net gains of fractions to around 2 points appeared among utilities, oils, metals and specialties.

Bunker Hill &amp; Sullivan got up nearly 4 points, while N. Y. &amp; Honduras and Sunshine Mining both advanced more than 2. Gainers of important note were more than a point in

Standard Oil of Ohio, Swift International

American Gas &amp; Electric, Gulf Oil

Commonwealth Edison

and Aluminum Company of America.

Transfers approximated 224,000 shares compared with 154,000 yesterday.

The extent of the latter tended to support the contention that the spring

buying season may be prolonged up to April to be released during May, the survey said.

There are growing indications and a strong desire to move ahead of the strong working around existing obstacles by the force of individual initiative and aggressiveness.

Forward buying is helping a number of companies to prevent schedules from showing the normal recession expected at this season and to maintain employment.

Extensively advertised sales attracted the largest number of weekend shoppers thus far this year in many sections. The continued increase in the added volume of business resulting from the late Easter, raised the level of April sales for the country, as a whole, 4 to 12 per cent above that of a year ago, according to preliminary estimates.

In the wholesale market, it was found that more buyers than in the earlier found in the corresponding week of last year. The survey continued:

In spite of the gradual decline in steel production and the cotton gins-tering of the textile industry, other lines of manufacture are holding up favorably.

IN LUMBER INDUSTRY

WASHINGTON, May 3.—(P)—The National Lumber Manufacturers Association reported today that orders received at 1,029 lumber mills during the week ended April 27 were the heaviest of any week since November, 1933.

Statements were in excess of any week since July, 1933, the report said.

The association said orders were 25 per cent above the corresponding week of last year. It said that shipments showed a 26 per cent improvement on the same comparison, and production was

1 per cent above the similar week of 1934.

Production for the week was 225,

400,000 feet, shipments 225,000 feet, and orders 225,000 feet.

Revised production for 1934, 400,

000 feet, shipments 225,000 feet and orders 225,000 feet.
